

REsources liNKage for E-science - RENKEI -

<http://www.e-sciren.org/>

REsources liNKage for E-science (RENKEI) is a research and development project for new middleware technologies to enable e-science communities "RENKEI" is Japanese word meaning "federation". The goal of the project is to develop middleware to federate/share resources (computers, storages, databases and applications) distributed among multiple organizations, such as research laboratories, national computer centers and international grids. The research activities consist of five research themes presented in the figure below. This project is supported by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology in Japan.

